

The striking contrast between the traditional cabinetry and Jenn-Air® Euro-Style Stainless appliances superbly accents this historic row house.

The slim profiles of this cooktop and ventilation hood give this kitchen a sleek, polished look.

The Jenn-Air® built-in coffee system elevates the art of coffee to a new level of decadence and distinction, and a steam and convection oven offers the same technology professional chefs use.

Designer Matthew Patrick Smyth shows how details make all the difference.

“What makes a kitchen design truly great are the little touches – design flourishes that set one kitchen apart from another and make it a personal place. The thing most people don’t consider is the role appliances can play as design elements.”

Matthew Patrick Smyth is consistently listed as a top designer in publications such as New York Magazine, Elements of Living and Gotham Magazine. His eye for details and distinctive mix of styles and periods have garnered him international acclaim.
