INTERIOR

If your current abode is in need of a full-on overhaul, or if you just need a home-style partner in crime to tweak things a bit, read on. These 100 interior designers are way more than decorators—they have philosophies that can transform even the dullest dwellings into the haute homes they ought to be.

Designers

KEVIN SHEPHERD, Providence & Sons
 267 West Street, 212-953-0133
 "There was one key word in our philosophy, it would be: We would like our clients to establish a space for a long career with professional and a small elegant furnishings."

MARLENE SHUMAN
 22 West 27th Street, Suite 21A,
 212-875-1230

"My style is contemporary with comfort and is always able and calm. I have a taste for designing my spaces. I like a soft scale, which for me is in the larger size."

STEPHEN SILL, JAMES HUN

Sills, Hunford & Associates
 60 East 47th Street, Third Floor,
 212-688-1636, shillshun.com
 "We have a keen sense for the client's needs, including the structural architecture. We also enjoy working with new materials, such as porcelain, stone, glass, hand-made, hand-cut, and hand-hewn, and hand-competent in environmental and ecological issues like tree, paintings, and architecture."

PAUL SISKIN, Siskin Sells Inc.
 27 West 10th Street, 212-212-2700

MATTHEW SMYTH, Matthew Patrick Smyth
 12 West 57th Street, Suite 704,
 212-333-5353

"It's a clear focus on fine detailing and suitability within a range of styles; a careful balance of style and appropriateness and a clean and edited look based on a traditional approach."

WILLIAM STUBBS, Stubbs
 "We're a traditional design studio for global, high-end architectural and interior design professionals from retail and hotel to residential with clients including Citicorp, Yves Saint Laurent, and the J. Paul Getty Center."

"I feel design is the result of the way we create space and the willing embrace nature and

ROBERT SILLS

212-217-9340, 632 379-4034, robertsills.com
 "I would best describe my work as classically modern. I like clean lines, simple forms, and strong shapes. My work is tailored to the needs of my clients with an emphasis on comfort and usability."

CARLETON WATNEY, Watney Design & Company, Inc.

60 East 54th Street, 212-750-2600
 "I believe that color is the key to interior design. A red room says one thing about the occupant, the same room painted deep green says another, and of course the same room done up in beige says still another—and rarely if ever. Now I find a beige room unless it was filled with bathroom accessories, cultural paintings, and lots of fresh flowers."

STEVEN WEIMER, Swain House Interiors
 717 Lexington Avenue, Suite 300, 212-368-2135

"I typically see a combination of architectural and decorative elements to create an interior as well as project. I'm a fan of a finely tailored garment. The architectural changes are designed to appear as natural as a good haircut."
